PORTFOLIO COMMENTARY

Global equities ended the quarter 10.7% lower after falling almost 7.0% in December. In contrast with recent months, US equities led the decline with the S&P 500 falling almost 20% at one point from its September highs. The Global Growth fund retreated 9.7% in the fourth quarter and 8.4% in 2018 overall.

2018 was undeniably challenging with almost all asset classes posting negative returns. It is a stark reminder of the potential for volatility, which lay dormant for so long, to re-exert itself. Relative to broad markets we have lagged as managers favouring cheaper and more cyclical companies struggled in a difficult environment. Emerging markets have also detracted from relative returns this year, with the region suffering from rising trade tensions, a stronger US dollar and a slowing Chinese economy. However we enjoyed stronger returns last year from those managers that allocate to high growth quality growth businesses, particularly the Stonehage Fleming Global Best Ideas fund and Findlay Park American fund.

Looking forward, we believe that global growth is slowing but not collapsing, and that the re-pricing in risk assets last year offers compelling long term opportunities in pockets of the market. Emerging markets, the UK and the value approach in the US are good examples, where valuation discounts are at multi-year lows. Despite a slower growth outlook there remains little appeal in holding core government bonds. Yields on UK sovereigns may fall in the near term but remain on an upward path, making alternative strategies more attractive as diversifying portfolio allocations. We introduced the Lyxor Sandler US Equity fund to the portfolio this year and continue to research interesting opportunities in the area.

ACTIVE MANAGERS IN FOCUS

The portfolio blends a mix of active, passive and factor strategies. Approximately 50% of the portfolio is invested in active managers where our conviction is the strongest. Below we outline two examples.

Man GLG Japan Core Alpha Equity

This strategy invests into large and mega cap Japanese equities with the aim of outperforming the TOPIX Index. The Fund is managed by Stephen Harker, who has over 30 years' experience investing into Japanese equities, and two supporting portfolio managers. The portfolio typically consists of 50 to 70 stocks and has a slight bias towards Value, whereby the Fund rotates out of stocks which have performed strongly and into names that are temporarily out of favour. The Fund is currently overweight Banks, Automakers and Real Estate names whilst remaining underweight Healthcare, Consumer Staples and Tech.

Lyxor/Sandler US Equity Fund

Sandler is a broad market US long/short specialist with over 20 years' experience running this strategy. Portfolio construction is more dynamic than peers in terms of both stock selection and the management of net exposure; the latter is calibrated by their views of the top down environment, with special consideration given to the credit cycle. The strategy does have a Growth bias, which we feel the manager has the ability to moderate when the environment becomes less constructive. This should also contribute as a diversifier for the Value leaning characteristics of much of our existing US exposure.
