COMMENTARY

The 2016 leap year brought investors a number of surprises. Major geopolitical events such as the Brexit referendum vote, the US presidential election, conflicts in the Middle-East and several terrorist attacks caused huge uncertainty, resulting in capital market and currency volatility. Against this, the world economy stayed on its moderate growth course and equity markets held up relatively well.

We do not change our investment approach according to changes in potential political or economic outcomes – we simply buy quality businesses that we believe can provide indefinite sustainable growth, at attractive valuations. We believe we should earn an attractive compounded return over time on this basic premise.

Whilst the term ‘quality’ can encompass numerous issues, we have condensed it to four main themes in addressing our mandate. Firstly, we invest in businesses that we believe enjoy steady and indefinite organic top-line growth (not cyclical growth, followed by contraction). Secondly, we invest in quality management teams with vision, outstanding leadership and governance. Following this, we seek high and sustainable profitability in the business, with particular emphasis on the return on invested capital the business earns. Lastly, and critically, all these have to collectively deliver sustainably growing free cash flow that can be returned to shareholders predominantly in the form of an ever increasing dividend (in real terms), and in the form of share buybacks (on the condition that it is done at attractive valuations). These quality characteristics are paramount to create sustainable value for shareholders.

Most investment styles get their turn in different investment cycles to be in or out of favour, whilst our approach is more style agnostic. Our mandate may at times out or under-perform certain styles or indices, but on the condition of not holding an overvalued business, we are confident of creating sustainable and attractive returns in the Fund.

RISK FACTORS

Stonehage Fleming Global Best Ideas Equity Fund (the "Fund") is an equity fund. Investors should be willing and able to assume the risks of equity investing in particular, fluctuations in market price, adverse issuer or market information and the fact that equity securities rank below other corporate securities, including debt securities, in right of payment in the event of issuer insolvency. The value of the Fund's portfolio changes daily and can be affected by changes in currencies, interest rates, general market conditions and other political, social and economic developments, as well as specific matters relating to the companies in whose securities the Fund invests. The Fund may hold a relatively small number of stocks as compared to many other funds. This may make the Fund's performance more volatile than would be the case if it had a more diversified investment portfolio.

Changes in the rates of exchange between currencies may cause the value of investments to go up or down in the reporting currency. In general, underlying investments denominated in foreign currency are not hedged back into the reporting currency. Among the factors that may influence currency values are trade balances, the levels of short-term interest rates, differences in relative values of similar assets in different currencies, long-term opportunities for investment and capital appreciation and political developments. Values may also be affected by developments relating to controls and restrictions on foreign currency remittance of proceeds of investments in a non-sterling jurisdiction.

All investments risk the loss of capital. No guarantee or representation is made that the Fund will achieve its investment objective. The value of investments may go down as well as up and the distributions can also go down or up and you may not receive back the full value of your initial investment. The risks outlined here are some of the more specific risks applicable to investment in the Fund and investors' attention is drawn to Appendix II of the Prospectus which provides more information on the types of risk factors investors should consider.

Whilst every effort is made to provide investors with accurate and up to date information, some of the information may be rendered inaccurate by changes in applicable laws and regulations. For example, the levels and bases of taxation may change. No information in this document should be interpreted as investment advice. If you feel unsure about the suitability of this investment for you, please consult with a professional financial adviser.
